

THURSDAY EVENING, FEB. 3, 1915

On last Thursday it was announced in the Gazette that "All the proposed amendmen's to the constitution of Virginis had passed the House of Delegates but not without opposition as to that which proposed an extension of the sessions of the general assembly from sixty days to ninety days," This met with much opposition, thirty votes being cast against it, and it is stated that only a leader was necessary in order to kill this raid on the public treasury. Editorinily we called attention on October 24, 1909, to this proposed charge saying, "It of, according to dispatches received at is hoped that the legislature will decline the State Department from the embasey to pass the resolution or bill to submit at Mexico city. The embassy has been to pass the resolution or but to submit this amendment. Too much harm is his finding within a week after the conpossible in sixty days, and too many sideration of which the court will gire; a laws are now on the statute books, so decision. with a ninety days session much time world be lost at a needless waste of republican caucus of the Il use until money, Indeed a majority of voters would prefer that the sessions be curtailed instead of lengthened." Con- latration's legislative programme at this tinuing we said: "The Gazatte bas always epposed these long sessions, and shall oppose this amendment if it comes effort will be made to secure a revision before the people and hopes to have the in the rules of the House before June assistance of the newspapers of the so as to eliminate the rule fight in the whole state." The present session of the campaign issue. If necessary before legislature has not been of a kind to enodify our views as quited, from the sidered at House caucuses. This desug of October last. The opposition is the substance of an agreement to this amendment can be made effective between Fresident Taft and Mr. Dwight If the press of the state brings the matter home to their readers and all the people. The opposition in the House the republican campaign committee to of Delegates, to which we have alladed, I show that the present house is carrying shows it is not a popular measure. The out the platform pledges and the parsage action of the Senate will be awaited with | hood bill will be pointed to an example some interest. Should it also pass that of this activity. It has not though body, which is by no means improbable, necessary to hold caucuses on any and later receive the signature of the of the president's legislative measgovernor, then it can be defeated and should be defeated by the voters, the corporation plan has put that measure court of last resort, the people.

SENATE.

The Senate spent yesterday discussing the amendments to the Fielcher tax equalization bili. Senator Tucker suggested a sort of combination of the Fletcher and King bills by which a tex commission should be formed at once and take hold of the 1910 real estate assessment, as well as the permanent tax system. Senator Sims presented an amendment which would tone down the penalizing of the Fietcher bill as to real estate assessors who fail to properly appraise property valuations.

No action was taken on any of these ropositions. Bills were introduced, providing for preparation of a scientific plan for a system of texation by the State Corporation Commission. Improved Conditions in Paris.

Paris, Feb. 3,-The last 24 hours have shown the biggest improvement in general flood conditions since the Scine began to recede. A drop of two feet since yesterday, bringing the stege of the river at the Pont d'Austerlitz to 21 feet and 10 inches, has drained a large part of the flooded section and traffic throughout the city, except in the subways, is almost normal.

It is doubtful if Paris, world-famed for is beauty, ever presented such a dirty appearance. Not only are the streets proken and littered, but huge piles of lood refuse, foul and manacing to health, stand in many parts of the city and every house that was attacked by the water shows the height the water reached by the muddy stain.

Some of the beautiful stone and marble buildings in the fashionable sections will have to be treated with sand-blasts before the marks of the flood can be effaced.

Thousands of men, thrown out of emplayment by the flood were put to work odny at street and sewer repairing.

The improvement in the suburbs not nearly so marked as in Paris, owing o the fact that a large percent of the population of the suburbs flocked into aris and has not yet returned.

A rangements are now being made to tablish free food depots in these subarbs so that the victims may return nome without the danger of starvation Soldiers are still killing pillagers in the flood district. More cave-ing are sported as the waters recede.
